Nixon to Ask $662 Million For Transport

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today he will ask for $662 million in the next five years to develop a super-sonic transport aircraft.

The United States must go ahead with the plane—called the SST—“to maintain its leadership” in the world aircraft industry, Nixon said.

“I want the United States to continue to lead the world in air transport,” he declared at a White House brief. “The SST is going to be built.”

Nixon noted his decision on the 1,800-mile-an-hour, 300-passenger airliner came after a “spirited debate within the administration.”

Opponents of the project have argued it is impractical, too expensive and too noisy.

Nixon asked $96 million this year in new funds from Congress in addition to $99 million in unused carryover appropriations for the SST program.

This would rise to $314 million in fiscal 1971, then progressively fall to $189 million in fiscal 1972, $48 million in fiscal 1973 and $15 million in fiscal 1974.

To meet a major objection from some opponents, Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said the SST would not be allowed to fly over population areas until the noise factor comes within acceptable limits.

Volpe said government investment in the SST would total $994 million of the approximately $1.4 billion needed to build two prototype aircraft by 1972.

The first test flights are scheduled for late 1972, with commercial use expected by 1978.

In addition to the need for continued U.S. leadership in world aviation, Nixon said a further reason for going ahead with the SST—the plane “would bring the world closer together in a physical sense and in time.”

Backers of the SST had called for $200 million to keep the project going fullblast through next June 30.

Opponents of the project contend much of the $600 million the government already has put out for research and design study has been wasted. They say sonic booms would make it impossible to fly the plane over inhabited areas and that the federal funds are needed to solve other domestic problems.

It is estimated another $300 million in government funds will be required before the first of two prototypes of the Boeing Corp. produced 1,800-mile-per-hour aircraft can be flight tested in 1972.

The airplane, to carry 300 passengers, would be expected to go into commercial use in 1978.

The U.S. government has accepted Boeing's revised, fixed-wing design and the company is ready to begin production this year.

Senate Debates Housing Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate called up for debate today a $6.3 billion housing bill providing for the first time direct federal rent subsidies for public housing tenants.

Although the bill essentially provides funds to carry on existing housing programs it does call for a major change — authorizing the Department of Housing and Urban Development to pay $75 million toward part of the rent of project dwellers.

Supporters said this was designed to revitalize the public housing program.

Under the plan, sponsored by Massachusetts Republican Edward W. Brooke, the government would pay that part of the rent which exceeds 25 per cent of the family's income. For families in the direct circumstances, the subsidy plan could mean no rent payments at all.

Brooke said HUD had told him 180,000 persons in these projects were being required to pay more than 25 per cent of their income in rent. There are approximately 4 million persons in public housing now.

The government currently indirectly subsidizes rents by paying nearly all of the cost of paying off the bonds which pay for construction, but there has been no direct rent subsidy.

The bill would revise public housing financing in a way that could lower present rents or prevent them from rising.

Under this provision, HUD for the first time would pay a part of the costs of maintenance and operations of public housing projects. This now comes entirely from rental income.

A third change would permit a sharp increase in public housing construction costs.

Present law allows a $750 per room increase in high cost areas. The bill would allow a 45 per cent boost.

Sponsors said that, for example, this would permit a per room cost of about $4,000 in New York as compared with $3,100 now. New York officials have complained the present ceilings are strangling the program there.

The bill also contains $3 billion additional for urban renewal over the next two years.

TO CURB NUCLEAR ARMS RACE

Soviets to Reply 'Soon' on Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Kremlin has sent word that it will reply “soon” to President Nixon's bid to begin U.S.-Soviet talks on curbing the nuclear arms race.

This message from Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to Secretary of State William P. Rogers Monday night fell short of U.S. hopes. It meant indefinite further delay on the already much-delayed disarmament parley the two superpowers agreed long ago to hold.

Gromyko did not specify what he meant by “soon.” State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey commented: “We were satisfied that what was said was meant, and we accepted it.”

Rogers and Gromyko held a three-hour dine-and-talk session at Rogers hotel suite. The Middle East, the United Nations, Germany-Berlin and the treaty to outlaw the spread of nuclear weapons—but not Vietnam or Red China—also were discussed.

Neither Gromyko, who said “we had a very good dinner, nor the Americans claimed progress on these issues. U.S. sources did say the discussion provided a clearer understanding of the opposing views on the communist camp. Gromyko hosts a follow-up meeting Friday night.

On SALT — The Strategic Arms Limitation Talks which Nixon had publicly hoped to get under way by mid-August in Vienna or Geneva—Gromyko told reporters only that “the time will come for a Soviet statement.”

McCloskey reported Gromyko told Rogers: “We will give you a reply on a time and place for preliminary talks soon.”

agreed to continue the talks between Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin on this crisis.

Rogers apparently found the going slow in his first private meeting with his Soviet counterpart since Nixon took office avowing “negotiation rather than confrontation with the communist camp. Gromyko hosts a follow-up meeting Friday night.

B52s Fly Raids on Red Bases

SAIGON (U) — A company of 130 South Vietnamese civilian irregulars led by American Green Berets suffered more than 50 per cent casualties in heavy fighting six miles south of the Cambodian border, military spokesmen reported today.

Within hours after the fighting ended, five waves of U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese bases and staging areas along the border north of Saigon with some 750 tons of explosives.

Seven of the South Vietnamese civilian irregulars were killed and 62 were wounded in the six-hour fight Monday three miles northwest of the Thien Ngon Special Forces camp. Four Green Berets were wounded.

American fighter-bombers and artillery came to the rescue of the embattled company and South Vietnamese headquarters said 35 North Vietnamese bodies were found afterward.

The U.S. Command sent its biggest bombers against the bases along the border in an attempt to break up preparations for a new enemy campaign expected in November.

U.S. spokesmen said the Stratofortresses hit North Vietnamese “activity base camps, supply and staging areas” between a mile and a mile and a half from the border. The target area stretched from 65 miles north-northwest of Saigon to 83 miles north of the capital.

Earlier, four American observation helicopters were shot at in the same general area, 60 miles north-northwest of Saigon. The helicopters returned the fire with machine guns and directed artillery onto the enemy positions. U.S. headquarters said 16 enemy soldiers were killed. No U.S. casualties were reported, and the helicopters returned to their base.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, reported two days ago that “a lot of prisoner of war statements and other documents indicate there will be a winter-spring campaign.” It would be a continuation of the enemy's autumn campaign, which has been marked by periods of comparatively heavy attacks alternating with longer stretches of light activity.

In the past, the heaviest attacks have been made north-west of Saigon and have been staged from camps along the Cambodian border.

Byrnes Leaves Hospital; Weak, But Doing Well

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — James F. Byrnes, 90-year-old former U.S. secretary of state and Supreme Court Justice, has left Baptist Hospital after his third stay since February.

His physician said Monday Byrnes “is still quite weak but anxious to return home.”

Hammy Weather

The cynic described a hammy TV weatherman: “Someone mentioned that it was a beautiful day—and he said ‘Thanks.’ . . . A poll taker asked people, ‘Where would you like to be if an A-bomb fell?’ and a man said, ‘Somewhere where I could look up and say, ‘What was that?’ . . . Someone described his quiet home town: ‘One year they held a turtle race—but had to raise the local speed laws first.’ . . . Success is the fine art of making mistakes when nobody's looking.”

Postal Corporation Proposal Voted Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's postal corporation proposal was voted down by the House Post Office Committee today under a confused parliamentary procedure that left in doubt any prospect for revival.

The vote, which was recorded unanimously by the 28-member committee, was to accept an alternate reform plan by Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., as the basic approach to be followed.

That vote was expected. But under procedure approved last week, there was supposed to be a second vote on whether to rewrite the chairman's plan into a corporation bill. But objections were raised and the second vote was not taken.

Dulski said he will call a new meeting, possibly next week. But he indicated that as far as he is concerned for the present the committee has chosen his bill over the administration's proposal to turn the nation's mail system over to a government-owned corporation.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount pressed the effort for the administration plan. Blount reportedly personally visited wavering House Post Office Committee members on the eve of today's vote to secure their support for the plan while union officials applied pressure to vote it down.

The challenge to the corporation concept came from an alternate postal reform bill, favored by the unions, introduced by committee Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y. The corporation would put the nation's mails under a board of directors who would be responsible for all business operations, including setting of postal rates subject to congressional veto.

Dulski's plan would keep the Post Office Department intact and leave postal employees in civil service with wages set by Congress but would give the department more businesslike control over its operations.

The outcome of the vote was in doubt up to the start of today's session with the major issue the administration plans' labor-management provisions.

The unions had insisted on the right to strike, otherwise, they say they would be at the self-supporting, government-owned postal corporation's mercy.

Blount stood by the proposed corporation machinery for compulsory arbitration, in lieu of the right to strike, when major contract disputes had reached an impasse.

OF INFLATION IN CONSTRUCTION

Union Leaders Cautiously Promise to Aid in Study

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Union leaders cautiously promised today to help a new White House commission study inflation in the construction industry. But they said high interest rates and soaring prices of real estate, and building materials are far more to blame than wage hikes.

“They talk about labor costs and ignore the skyrocketing prices of land, materials, fixtures and equipment, said President C.J. Haggerty of the AFL-CIO Construction and Building Trades Department.

“They condemn our wage rate increases and bless the bonanza that the money managers have engineered for themselves through interest rates that the Nixon administration has condemned, Haggerty said in an official report to the convention of the 17 building trades unions representing 3.5 million construction workers.

But a spokesman for Haggerty said building trades officials will cooperate with the White House commission in hopes of getting across labor's views on inflation.

President Nixon named Haggerty and three other building trades union leaders, along with four industry representatives and three government officials, to the special construction industry collective bargaining commission.

Nixon cited labor-management strike tensions and inflationary wage settlements as reasons for setting up the commission by presidential executive order Monday.

Construction wages, rising at a record annual pace of about 20 per cent so far this year, have reached as much as $10 an hour for skilled men in some cities.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz, named as chairman of the White House commission, has warned that both the industry and the workers could price themselves out of the market unless the inflationary spiral is slowed.

Construction wages are negotiated locally and presidents of the building trades unions say they have little influence over pay settlements. They argue that the federal Landrum-Griffin law, enacted to protect union members rights, prevents them from bringing pressure on local unions.

Haggerty criticized Nixon's cutback in federal construction, saying it would lead to rising unemployment and cripple efforts to give more high paying building trades jobs to Negroes.

The construction unions issued a policy statement Monday urging all 9,000 locals of the 17 unions to take in any qualified Negro or other minority group applicants who can pass journeymen's tests.

TO KEEP SAFEGUARD PLAN ALIVE

To Spend $1.3 Million Daily

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will spend $1.3 million a day from now through Nov. 3 on Safeguard antimissile research just to keep the big project alive pending full congressional approval.

The expenditures were authorized by the Army Monday. Specifically, the Army awarded $55 million to Western Electric, prime contractor of the system, to use under an outstanding research and development contract totaling $249.65 million.

Money for that contract technically is provided in the defense budget for fiscal year 1970, but the budget has not completed the legislative route through Congress.

“Without this extension, all Safeguard research and development would halt as of Sept. 22,” the Pentagon said.

The Pentagon said the action was ordered by Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor “in keeping with the Army's mission of committing only the minimum funds necessary to sustain the program pending a congressional decision.”

The Safeguard system—a program requiring $800 million this year and eventually a total of $6 billion to $7 billion—won a key Senate test in August but still lacks expected House approval. The Pentagon emphasized the Army is not buying Safeguard sites or antimissiles at this time.

But the Pentagon said further research work is permissible under legal provisions allowing government agencies to continue work already in progress while Congress considers annual appropriations.

In July the Army gave Western Electric—which has been researching antimissile warfare the past decade—an initial $80 million to keep going in the new budget year. That award allowed Western Electric to spend $1.7 million a day from Aug. 1 through Sept. 15.

Under Monday's award, Western Electric will conduct tests of Safeguard interceptor missiles, radars and various subsystems at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., and Kwajalein Missile Range in the Marshall Islands.

Water is flowing through Jordan's Ghor irrigation canal again as the result of another secret deal between Jordan and Israel.

Informed sources said Israel for the second time had agreed to let Jordan repair the canal unmolested in return for Jordanian agreement to enforce the Arab-Israeli cease-fire in the Jordan and Beisan valleys. Eyewitnesses reported that a 30-man crew began temporary repairs Monday and that the water was flowing again by late Monday afternoon.

The United States acted as the go-between in the negotiations, which Jordan requested, the sources said.

The 40-mile canal transports water from the Yarmuk River to northern Jordan's fertile valleys. Israeli commandos blew up a section of it on June 23 in retaliation for Arab guerrilla activity in the area. During July the United States was a go-between at Jordan's request, and Israel agreed to let the canal alone if Jordan curbed the guerrillas.

Shortly after the canal reopened, however, guerrilla activity resumed along the border. Israeli jets hit the canal again Aug. 10.

Despite the new agreement, an Israeli spokesman reported a rocket attack Sunday night from Jordan on a kibbutz four miles south of the Sea of Galilee as its residents observed Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

The spokesman said Israeli forces returned the fire.

The Israeli said “a few” rockets also were fired from an improvised bazooka Monday at Zafirim, 15 miles southwest of Jerusalem. No damage or casualties were reported.

In Morocco, where leaders of 26 Moslem nations were meeting in an Islamic conference, President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt said in a message that the recent fire in the Al Aksah mosque in Jerusalem was a “premeditated act” and a threat to free peoples throughout the world.

Nasser, reported ill with influenza in Cairo, is represented at the meeting in Rabat by Vice President Anwar Sadat. The conference was called in an attempt to use the fire to rally non-Arab nations against Israel. Nasser's message told them that the fire was “only one aspect of a picture which threatens not only the Arab nation but free peoples throughout the world, who are now able to measure the full dimensions of this threat.”

Say Trainees May Have Hit Marine Recruit

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — An investigation into the death of a recruit who said he was “kicked and choked” at the Parris Island training base indicates fellow trainees may have hit him and pushed him against a wall, a Marine spokesman reports.

Pvt. Stephen E. Melson, 18, of Millsboro, Del., died Sunday after being hospitalized Sept. 7, four days after arriving at the Marine recruit training depot.

A Marine spokesman said investigators found that Melson told doctors at the U.S. naval hospital at nearby Beaufort that he had had the symptoms of which he complained for at least eight days.

Doctors at the University of South Carolina hospital in Charleston, to which he was transferred, said death resulted from kidney failure, uremic encephalopathy and pneumonia. Autopsy results have not been announced.

Will 4 Percent Sales Tax Be Repealed in Wisconsin?

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — If Wisconsin lawmakers need a precedent for repealing a tax they have one.

The 1963 legislature did it. The 1969 legislature will return to Madison Monday and one of the agenda items will be repeal of the four per cent sales tax passed during the summer. Leading Republican members of both Houses — after some time with the home folks — frankly admit the four percent tax didn't help get votes.

THEY'VE prepared a substitute. It would get rid of the four percent fee that hits about everything but food and prescription drugs. The new plan would peg the tax back at three percent and even include an $3 credit refund feature.

Current repeal efforts recall that 16 years ago the legislature slapped on a tax that brought howls of protest. The howling was so effective that lawmakers hustled back to Madison and quickly undid their deed.

Legislative Reference Bureau files and newspaper clippings of the 1953 tax snafu are unclear as to whether a tax applied then was deliberate or a goof.

The tax was an $8 fee on two-wheel trailers, the kind used behind cars to haul boats, camping gear, rubbish or whatever a two-wheel trailer owner likes to lug.

One assemblyman disturbed over the $8 tax yelled on the floor as he pleaded for prompt repeal: "I've had more trouble with this lousy bill than any other since I've been in the legislature."

"WE WENT off half cocked in enforcing the law," a respectable senator told his colleagues. A clipping quotes this legislative admission: "I voted for the law and I'm willing to take the blame."

The trailer tax provision was buried in the form of an amendment to a bill fixing truck taxes. The amendment said two-wheel trailers weighing less than 3,000 pounds should be taxed half of a trailer weighing over that figure, making it $8.

The trailer tax bill was passed in June. It went into effect a month or so later. Cries of indignation went up as trailer owners registered and shelled out.

Back in Madison in October, quickly drafted and passed a repealer. It promised refunds to all who bought licenses.

THEN GOV. Walter J. Kohler vetoed the bill. He said he favored repealing the fee, but noted lawmakers failed to provide the refund money.

Another bill was promptly passed that corrected that error. Then questions arose about constitutionality of the state paying back tax money.

The state Supreme Court was the next step.

The court said "pay up."

Bailey Will Defend One Of Six Berets

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Famed Boston criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey is going to defend one of the six Green Beret officers charged with murdering a Vietnamese double agent, the military attorney for the officer announced today.

Bailey will take charge of the defense of Capt. Robert F. Marasco of Bloomfield, N.J., who is scheduled to go on trial before a general court-martial on Oct. 20 along with Capt. Leland J. Brumley of Duncan, Okla., and Capt. Budge E. Williams of Athens, Ga. However, the defense is expected to seek a postponement of the trial.

Edward Bennett Williams, another of America's best known criminal attorneys, is expected to direct the defense of Col. Robert B. Rheault of Vineyard Haven, Mass., the former commander of Special Forces troops in Vietnam and the highest ranking of the defendants. Rheault and two others are to be tried after the other three officers, but there are indications the charges will be quashed if the first trial ends in an acquittal.

Both Bailey and Williams are expected to arrive in Vietnam next Monday or Tuesday.

A third prominent trial lawyer, Henry B. Rothblatt of New York, arrived in Saigon Monday to defend Capt. Brumley and Maj. David E. Crew of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who is scheduled to be tried with Rheault and Maj. Thomas C. Middleton Jr. of Jefferson, S.C.

Marasco's military attorney, Capt. Thomas H. T. Young, spoke by transpacific telephone with Bailey in Boston today and told newsmen Bailey said he would be "happy" to join the defense.

"We wanted the best and we have got the best," Young said.

Admit Errors in Recording Presence of House Members

WASHINGTON (AP) — There might have been a pattern of minor but deliberate errors in recording the presence of House members last year, the House Ethics Committee chairman said today.

But in reporting this, Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., said a study by this panel showed no indication this type error occurred in recording actual votes, only quorum calls.

"Improved voting methods are unquestionably indicated," Price said in calling for a modernized, error-proof system in the House.

Price's committee, at the request of Speaker John W. McCormack, investigated irregularities in recording House roll calls last fall.

In May the committee said it found no evidence of complicity in a series of rollcall errors disclosed last September, but called for a modernized voting system to minimize chances of human error.

Price, in a statement prepared for a House Administration subcommittee, said today all 423 rollcalls in the second session of the 90th Congress—233 votes and 185 quorum calls—were examined.

Price said the study showed there may have been a minor pattern of purposeful error in quorum calls but no indication whatever of such mistakes in actual votes.

He said steps already have been taken to insure the complete removal of the possibility of purposeful errors.

Price did not elaborate on what was meant by "purposeful errors," a phrase used in the

1,000 File Claims On Drug Overcharges

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Some 1,000 Wisconsin residents have filed claims totaling $250,000 for overcharges in buying drugs, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren's office said Monday.

The claims grew out of a price conspiracy case brought by the federal government against five drug makers.

An estimated 38,000 claims were filed nationally for alleged overcharges for antibiotics. The firms agreed this year to settlement terms.

Shah of Iran to Visit Washington

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Shah of Iran will visit Washington Oct. 21-23, a court communique announced Monday.

Empress Farah, who is expecting a child, will not make the trip, the communique said.

This simple light may prevent your house from being burglarized.

A darkened house is an invitation to burglary. And this invitation has been increasingly accepted by housebreakers in the Twin Cities and suburban areas. Burglaries doubled in the last 7 years. Law enforcement officials know that light turns off burglars. For instance, the installation of street lights has reduced street crimes as much as 87% in some American cities.

For some time, many Twin Cities residents have been protecting their homes with a device called a "Nightwatch." This light mounts on any standard utility pole near your house and turns on automatically at dusk and turns off automatically at sunrise. It illuminates your house area for about 12 cents a night. (All maintenance included.) According to area law enforcement officials, its light is an effective deterrent to all types of crime.

If you would like more information on the installation of a "Nightwatch" for your home, call or write your nearest NSP office.

Tentative Approval Given Budget Issues

By FRANK UHLIG
Daily News Staff Writer

Approving a large mixed bag of tentative budget requests for several departments, the City Council Monday night approached the end of preliminary reviews for next year's fiscal operations.

Next week the council will see the largest remaining budget, that of the park-recreation department, and then will consider the complete city budget. It is expected to call for a dollar levy about $50,000 below the total levied for 1969 operations.

The budgeting process up to now has consisted of proposals by department heads to the city manager, adjustment and approval of figures by the manager and tentative approval of each section by the council. Next week all the threads will be drawn together and the council will act on the final document.

Given tentative approval Monday night were the following:

- Post Audit — Set at $2,000, this is the estimated cost of a public examiner's audit of the city books for the preceding year.

- Elections and Voter Registration — Calling for expenditures of $10,813, this section includes the annual payment of $6,004 on city voting machines. It also covers the salaries of election judges and the cost of supplies. The city expects to spend $3,296 for election personnel in 1970.

City Clerk John Carter was questioned by Councilman Dan Trainor Jr. about funds for an additional election should the need arise. He observed that these possibilities might include a courthouse election or a charter referendum. Funds would have to be rounded up from other sources, Carter replied.

City Manager Carroll J. Fry told councilmen the city cannot budget to cover every possible contingency because this would push the budget through the roof.

Election expenditures for 1968 were $14,257 and for 1969 will total $10,639, the report showed.

- Mayor and Council — For 1970 the request totals $19,906, compared with $32,740 appropriated for 1969. The reduction comes in the amount designated for services of consultants, Fry told the council. In 1969, $16,535 was allotted for this purpose while in 1970 the allotment will be $7,900.

The budget also covers salaries of the mayor ($2,400 per year) and councilmen ($1,000 per year each).

- Flood Control — Lacking any appropriations for land purchases next year, the expenditure total is expected to be $420. Flood control for the current year was pegged at $1,650.

Because Corps of Engineers planning and Congressional action on funding both are lagging, there is little or no prospect that purchases of land will be necessary in 1970, reported Fry.

A letter from Cong. Albert Quie advised the council that the district corps office in St. Paul expects to complete its draft report on Stage II at Winona by November. A request for $22,000 to complete surveys is still under study by the House appropriations committee, Quie reported, noting that he had testified in favor of it early in the summer. The district engineer has been urged to complete all work in time to get the Stage II project into the omnibus public works bill, next spring, Quie wrote.

- Boat Harbors — A total of $1,242 is proposed, compared with $420 for 1969. It would include $822 for repairs to the commercial harbor dock.

- Charter Commission — A proposal for $200 was adopted. The charter commission, now relatively inactive, is authorized a maximum appropriation of $2,400 under state law. The appropriation would cover consultant costs in the event a charter amendment is drawn and recommended by the commission.

- Armory — Councilmen approved a proposal for $7,500, covering the city's annual payment on bonded indebtedness. An appropriation of $14,000 for 1969 wasn't spent, Fry reported. This money will go back into the general fund surplus.

- City Band — Expenditures of $7,050, compared with $6,980 for the present year, were approved by the council. Fry noted that the statutory limit for such levies is $10,000.

- Port Authority — After discussing the authority's priorities briefly, the council voted approval for a proposed $15,000 appropriation.

Acknowledging that industrial development is one of its functions, Councilman Barry Nelson urged that the authority give early attention to sparking an upgrading of the city's river front. He asked that industrial property owners be requested to improve their lands and that the authority attempt a cleanup of city properties.

Fry pointed out that the authority has no jurisdiction over city lands, unless the council grants it, and that a study of the situation is contemplated. Part of the budget allotment will finance this work, he said, and when data was assembled recommendations can be made.

Nelson said he thinks supervision of port facilities should be given a higher priority. He added that the authority can recommend, even if it cannot act directly, and can bring about upgrading by moral force.

- Operating in 1969 under a $5,000 appropriation, the authority used $2,700 and the remainder will revert to general fund surplus.

- Animal Control — Expenditures of $6,417 for 1970 were approved, including the poundmaster's salary of $5,040. The figure is virtually the same as the $6,437 expenditure total.

- Sanitary Sewers — A total expenditure of $77,050 was approved. Of this amount, $72,900 will be funded by special assessments and $4,150 by the general fund tax levy.

- Storm Sewers — Total new construction costs of $137,800 were approved. About $40,000 was spent for this purpose in 1969. A $102,300 program for improving County Ditch No. 3 is the principal cause of higher costs.

Funding will be as follows: General fund, $83,800, county contributions $15,000, federal aids $45,000 and assessments $14,000.

- Police — An outlay totaling $367,849 was approved virtually without discussion. Police expenditures for the current year are to be $354,082. The increase is $12,761. Within the new budget are salaries totaling $312,265, a rise for this item of $15,514.

- Police Relief Association — The fund will pay $64,350 in benefits for 1970, of which $14,725 will be supplied by general fund tax levies. Members' dues will furnish $13,634 and investment interest will supply $5,991.

The increasing demands on retirement funds and on tax sources for financing will require that both police and fire departments be held to absolute personnel minimums, said Fry. He told the council that funding requirements will rise steeply in the next few years. Expansion of actuarial bases for such funds is being pushed by the state and increased demands will be made on pension funds as police and fire salary payments rise, he said.

Kenny Institute Cares For Several Disorders

A child with a school learning problem.
A farmer's wife with excruciating back pain.
A blind youngster with a behavior disorder.
A teen-ager paralyzed after a car accident.
A young businessman helpless from a stroke.

THESE ARE typical patients at Kenny Rehabilitation Institute, Minneapolis, sponsored by the American Rehabilitation Foundation, and one of the 17 member agencies of the Winona Community Chest.

Since its early days when its chief concern was the care of polio victims, the institute has rehabilitated thousands of crippled and handicapped patients and returned them to community life. With polio a tragedy of the past, the institute today cares for stroke patients, those with arthritis and neuromuscular disorders, and the victims of car, industrial and farm accidents.

Community Chest funds help those unable to pay, and every patient receives some free care, since fees never take care of the total cost.

THE GOAL of the 1970 Winona Community Chest fund drive is $177,531. The general drive is scheduled Oct. 6-25.

The Kenny Institute is not a "typical" hospital. It is a model center for the evaluation, treatment and retraining of patients with disabling conditions. It is one of the oldest such institutions in the nation.

Besides dealing with physical disabilities, the institute also deals with problems of children such as learning and behavior disorders.

A MAIN PURPOSE of the institute's studies is to develop ways of better health care without increasing costs. The training and interests of its staff include sociology, economics, statistics, education, systems planning and data processing technology applied to health and medical care.

The American Rehabilitation Foundation conducts a broad educational program. It schedules some 40 programs yearly of 14 courses, including refresher courses for nurses, social workers, physical and occupational therapists; courses on stroke for physicians and programs for clergy who counsel the chronically ill.

Through its field services the foundation carries its continuing education programs beyond the institute and takes them into a five-state area. These "extension" courses are conducted by rehabilitation educators, specially trained nurses who explain and demonstrate the latest techniques in rehabilitation.

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special) — The Rev. Jake Reinhardt, Minneapolis, will speak at special services at the Calvary Evangelical Free Church, Thursday through Sunday at 8 p.m. He also will speak at the Sunday services at 11 a.m.

Rev. Reinhardt has been a missionary in Germany and served two years as an evangelist for the Evangelical Free Church.

It will be given at Greenfield Lutheran Church basement.

Orientation and registration were held Monday for students who expect to go to college or are undecided about college.

The American College Test and the Scholastic Aptitude Test will be given in December at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, and the Rochester and Austin junior colleges.

The cost of operating schools of Winona Independent District 861 may increase more than $800,000 this fiscal year but it appears that the larger tax bill may be accommodated by an actual overall reduction in the mill rate for school purposes.

During a preliminary study of

BLACK HAMMER FUND — SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special) — The annual meeting of the Black Hammer United Fund will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Black Hammer church basement.

a listing of anticipated expenditures for educational services for the new fiscal year Monday night the School Board heard a preliminary study of anticipated expenditures for allocations for the general school fund amounting to $5,126,777, compared with $4,243,376 actually spent for school operations during the year ending last June 30.

To support the all-time record operational budget, school directors found, a local school levy of $2,018,015 will be required.

SCHOOL BOARD
ALTHOUGH THE anticipated 1970 levy is slightly more than $300,000 above that required for fiscal 1969 the school mill rate for the general fund may drop from 104.85 on agricultural land and 129.85 on nonagricultural land in 1969-70 to 103.6 and 129.8, in these two respective categories, for 1969-70.

In addition to the levy for the general fund 20.8 mills will be levied for the debt service fund and eight mills for the school building fund.

This would bring the total school mill rate for all purposes to 132.4 for agricultural land and 157.4 for nonagricultural land in the current fiscal year. Comparable figures for 1969-70 were 135.59 and 160.59.

The past year's revaluation of nonagricultural business and residential property which provided a broader real estate tax base for the computation of mill rates is responsible for the anticipated drop in the overall mill levy in the face of a substantial rise in the cost of school services.

SCHOOL BOARD
THIS DOESN'T mean that all taxpayers in the district will be paying less as their share of the total district school bill this year.

Owners of agricultural land which was not involved in the city revaluation may find their tax assessment for school purposes somewhat lower than last year as will commercial and industrial property owners whose property did not receive a higher valuation tag in the citywide revaluation.

But, for the majority of the owners of residential property the revaluation resulted in a higher property valuation for tax purposes and their dollar tax bill for school purposes will be higher than for 1969-70.

After a detailed study of the 12-page listing of anticipated receipts and expenditures presented by the administration for fiscal 1970 the board agreed to hold the proposed school budget over for further consideration.

A SPECIAL meeting of the board has been scheduled for Oct. 5 when budget study will be resumed and a public hearing on the proposed budget was set for the evening of Oct. 7.

Although the public hearing is not legally necessary board members agreed that it should be called in consideration of the extent to which educational services figure in the overall tax picture.

As finally determined, the study committee will consist of two members of the administration, five teachers and two board members.

Allen Monday night appointed Directors Kenneth P. Nelson and Dr. C. R. Kollofski to represent the board on the committee.

Also figuring in any future merit consideration was a panel finding that an expansion of the present administrative staff in certain areas would be advisable to allow key administrative personnel additional opportunity to observe teachers in classroom situations and work with them in an effort to increase general instructional effectiveness.

"If we accept the panel report," Allen said, "we're going to have to hire more administrative personnel and change some of the duties now assigned to administrators."

The board approved his suggestion that the board president and Dr. C. W. Rogers, 5th District director, serve as a committee to study the administrative structure, determine what new personnel may be needed and consider realignment of administrative duties.

The two-member committee will submit its findings to the board at the conclusion of its study.

Council Says
No to Husband,
Yes to Wife
Routine approval for issuance of a 3.2 beer license to Mrs. George Pippenger, at the Hof-Brau Tavern, 529 E. Wabasha St., was granted Monday night by the City Council.

The motion by Councilman Dan Bambenek, seconded by Councilman Howard Hoveland, aroused no debate. It was preceded by a report by Police Chief James McCabe that the applicant appeared to meet the qualifications imposed by city codes.

A lively topic in other meetings, the license proposal stirred no references to previous applications. At its meeting last week the council had denied an application submitted by George Pippenger, husband of the successful applicant, on grounds that a record of misdemeanors should be considered.

City Clerk John S. Carter told Mayor Norman E. Indall that Mrs. Pippenger now is the licensee of record for the tavern.

By a scattering of voice votes councilmen adopted the motion. A few appeared to abstain but there were no nays.

School Costs Will Increase, But Mill Rate May Go Down

After the board's business manager, Paul W. Sanders, had led the discussion of the administration's recommendations on budget expenditures, Superintendent of Schools A. L. Nelson noted that state law requires that the board in any district where a 5 percent increase or more is necessary in the mill rate to support a school budget must call a public hearing on the proposed budget.

In view of the fact that Winona's district apparently will realize a reduction rather than an increase in its new school mill rate, Nelson asked whether the board felt it advisable to call such a hearing.

"EVEN IF THE mill rate does go down the dollars we're spending are going up," 4th District Director Daniel S. Sadowski observed. "I think the people are entitled to have a hearing even though we're not obligated to call one."

Board President Frank J. Allen concurred, saying, "I think this information we have here on the proposed budget should be made available to everyone who's interested and we should have a hearing despite the fact that the law does not say we have to have one."

Other directors agreed and the Oct. 7 hearing was scheduled.

It's expected now that the board will convene again after the hearing for possible formal action on adoption of a new budget which must be submitted to the county auditor by Oct. 10.

ALTHOUGH total expenditures from the general school fund will be running some $880,000 above those of the 1969-70 fiscal year, the local effort for support of the proposed budget is held to an increase of a little more than $300,000 because of an anticipated increase in several revenue sources.

Increased school enrollments which are a factor in the increased operational costs also will yield a larger base from which state and federal school aids are computed and a new formula for computation of aids should result in a substantial increase in revenues from these sources.

As far as increases in expenditures are concerned employment of additional personnel to accommodate the larger enrollment, higher salaries and anticipated increases in other operational costs are responsible for the budget passing the $5 million mark.

Total salaries for instructional purposes are up more than $600,000 and account for more than $3.3 million in the new proposed budget.

ON A percentage basis, approximately 75 percent of all anticipated expenditures for school purposes from the general fund during the next fiscal year are related to salaries.

Sanders pointed out that when teachers' salaries and instructional supplies are lumped together to provide a total anticipated expenditure for classroom instruction it's found that 74 cents of every dollar in the proposed budget is earmarked for this purpose.

Nelson commented that nationally it's considered that an outlay of 70 percent or more of the total school budget for instructional purposes is considered a standard level for efficient and effective school operations.

Most of the increases in the proposed budget can be traced to the expanded district school enrollment — up 459 over last year — additional personnel to serve the larger school population, higher salaries approved this past summer by the board, expanded school facilities for the larger enrollment and higher costs of equipment and supplies.

ALSO under consideration at Monday night's meeting was the annual clerk's report on finances for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Total receipts amounted to $4,586,941, including a balance on hand July 1, 1968 of $187,742, while expenditures for the period came to $5,154,527, leaving deficit of $567,585.

Sanders pointed out, however, that this statement of financial status of the district was misleading since a substantial portion of last year's revenues which should have been recorded during the fiscal year were delayed and not received until after July 1.

Addition of these receipts which came in after the end of the last fiscal year, amounting to more than $900,000, actually gave the district an effective net balance of slightly more than $400,000.

The annual report also will be brought up for formal acceptance at a subsequent meeting.

Sales Tax Receipts to County Total $610,000

State Auditor William J. O'Brien announced today that his office will distribute $610,000 from sales tax receipts to Winona County next year. The distribution will be in equal installments on June 15 and Nov. 15 and goes to municipalities and school districts.

Most of the payment, O'Brien said, will be from 1970 sales tax revenues, totaling $506,360. This is an increase of $95,663 — 24 percent — from the 1969 distribution.

THE REST OF the payment will come from amounts collected but not previously distributed. These amounts are $35,548 for 1968 and $67,982 for 1969.

The makeup payments represent the differences between estimated revenues and actual collections, which ran higher. Under a recent opinion issued by Douglas Head, state attorney general, the state must apportion one-third of the actual amounts collected in sales taxes to local government units and school districts. Previously the state had apportioned one-third of the estimated amounts under the original interpretation of the law's intent.

Per capita distribution to municipalities next year will be $6.80 and school districts will receive $24.52 per capita, according to the auditor's estimate of Sept. 1, 1969.

THE COUNTY'S two largest subdivisions, City of Winona and Independent School District No. 861, topped the list of 1970 estimates and makeup payments for 1968 and 1969.

The city will receive an estimated $176,688.60 next year, plus back payments of $12,378.23 for 1968 and $23,534.39 for 1969, or a total of $212,599.22.

The school district will receive an estimated $140,793.84 in regular apportionments next year plus $18,499.03 for 1969, or a total of $159,292.87.

In addition, $8,326.99 will be paid to the district for makeup funds payable to Special School District No. 5, the former Winona city district, now superseded by the independent district.

The following table shows amounts payable to municipalities:

Button, Button, Lost My Button

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I had on a one-button jacket at El Morocco's formal fall opening — and the one button popped off.

Feeling naked among those society people with my coat open and tummy hanging out, I ran to the men's room screaming for a needle. (I didn't want such people as Ed Eulivian and Walter Cronkite, who were also there, to see me in that condition.)

The pro reported my embarrassing need to the ladies' room matron. Ethel Merman, always a pal, roared to the matron:

"Help! There's a man here who's lost his only button!"

The pro yanked off my coat. The matron sewed on the button in two minutes while I covered in shirt sleeves in a phone booth. I gave the pro a large 75¢, the matron $1, and rushed back to tell my Beautiful Wife, "I got a button sewn on for only $1.75."

Snappy rejoinder: "If you took off weight, you wouldn't pop your buttons."

He sent me a check and also gave a $20 reward to Ruben's busboy Jose Coloco who found his wallet with $300 in it. (I just want to say Jack Astor is a classy guy and I always knew he was good for $10.)

Astor, who signs himself John Astor without the Jacob, was a

It was developed because of increasing criticism of tear gas by legislators. Yet, most law enforcement officials agree that non-lethal chemical weapons are an effective, humane alternative to firearms and other forms of physical force.

The meeting of refuge personnel at McGregor over the weekend consisted mainly of a review of refuge regulations, which have not changed during the year. Generally speaking, last year's rules prevail.

Boundaries of the closed areas remain the same but have been cleared and reposted where the old marking signs were damaged by the flood. Problem areas were discussed, as well as the regulations that normally cause trouble. A lot of the detail was mainly for the benefit of staff members, many of whom are new during the past year.

The hunter who hunted the Mississippi bottomlands last year, has little cause to worry, but the federal and state changes as to species and identification of birds, will need some attention in advance of the opening.

State Attorney General Rules in Favor of Locally-Imposed Sales Taxes

By GERRY NELSON
ST. PAUL (AP) — In a ruling Monday, Atty. Gen. Douglas Head said that the state Tax Department may collect locally imposed "piggyback" sales taxes.

The attorney general added, however, that the taxes could only be collected if they do not interfere with regular taxes of the department.

The ruling said the Tax Department is not compelled to sign such agreements until satisfied with the arrangements.

One specific area where the ruling might apply is in Duluth where voters are to decide next Tuesday on whether to impose a local one per cent sales tax.

If approved, the local tax will pad the present three per cent statewide sales tax.

As it would work, the state would collect the four per cent figure and channel one per cent of the funds, less handling expenses, back into the city government.

Head's opinion said the proposed arrangement is authorized under the Joint Powers Act—which permits various units of government to join for a common purpose.

The attorney general did attach several major conditions to any piggyback tax arrangement:

—The local tax must be essentially identical to the state tax.

—The state tax department must be paid by the city for all costs of collecting the local tax.

—The tax commissioner has the option of rejecting any proposed tax collection agreements with local governments.

A number of local governments have been eyeing either local sales taxes or local income taxes as a way out of a financial dilemma. The theory of having them collected by the state is that the machinery for making collections already exists and thus the city would not have to have its own tax department.

The 1969 legislature rejected a last-minute attempt to provide for a state-collected piggyback tax in Duluth. The latest ruling says the arrangement can be made under the existing Joint Powers Act, without a specific piggyback sales tax law.

The city of Minneapolis will begin collecting a 3 per cent tax Oct. 1 on hotel-motel bills, admissions and amusements. That tax also will be collected by the state tax department, but it was authorized by a special law and is not involved in Head's ruling.

Logan said in the case of Duluth or other cities, it would be "administratively impracticable" for the state to tackle piggyback taxes that differ from the state tax.

The state sales tax does not apply to groceries, drugs and clothing. A local government thus could not impose a broader general sales tax.

"Were the local tax not to be identical, it would likely be more economical for the municipality to administer and collect the tax itself," Logan said.

Logan said the "total costs" of collecting the local tax must be borne by the local government. This would be done by having the state skim off its share before returning the collected amount to the city.

The major question dealt with was whether the tax department could hire additional personnel to handle local taxes.

Head said it can, provided approval is gotten from the legislative advisory committee.

Head made it clear that the decision in each case will be up to the tax department.

"We wish to emphasize that while the commissioner of taxation is authorized...to enter into an agreement with the city for this purpose, he is not required to do so," Head declared.

Head said the tax commissioner should consider whether collection of a city sales tax "would put such a strain" on the department so as to impair its efficiency for regular duties.

If Duluth voters reject the proposed tax next week, the question of a specific contract between a city and the tax department would not arise until there is a concrete proposal from some other city.

St. Paul Mayor Thomas Byrne has supported the idea of a local income tax.

measure is pending before the Senate Public Works Committee.

The 79-year-old Stewart, who became Capitol architect in 1954, carried through the controversial extension of the Capitol's east front and the Rayburn House Office Building, criticized for overrunning all cost estimates.

Haynsworth Asked of Controversial Purchase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee opened its second week of hearings into Judge Clement F. Haynsworth's nomination to the Supreme Court today by calling for his testimony on a second controversial stock transaction.

Haynsworth supporters had been scheduled to testify today, but the committee switched plans and summoned witnesses including the judge, familiar with his purchase of 1,000 shares of Brunswick Corp. stock for $19,000 on Dec. 20, 1967.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., raised questions about the purchase.

The 4th U.S. Court of Appeals, which Haynsworth heads, publicly announced a decision in favor of Brunswick Feb. 2, 1968.

But the Justice Department, in a letter to committee Chairman Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., supported Haynsworth last weekend with a letter saying the case had been "substantially decided" on Nov. 10, 1967.

The Justice Department letter said the case involved competitive liens on used bowling alley fixtures in Charleston, S.C., and it would not appear that the outcome "could conceivably have affected the market value of Brunswick stock."

After the letter was made public, Bayh asked Eastland to request a list of all of Haynsworth's stock transactions since his appointment to the federal court in 1967. Haynsworth previously disclosed his current stock holdings.

Bayh's administrative assistant ant, Robert Keefe, said the senator wanted to check on whether Haynsworth owned any Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad stock at the time that he sat on cases involving that firm.

Haynsworth testified last week he has disqualify himself in all cases in which "I have had a stock interest."

Last week's testimony revolved mainly around Haynsworth's holdings in Carolina Vend-A-Matic at a time when his court dismissed an unfair labor charge against the Deering-Milike Inc. textile chain in 1963. Opponents of Haynsworth said he should have disqualified himself in the case because the vending machine company was doing business with Deering-Miliken.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Monday nothing has occurred to make President Nixon change his mind about the nomination.

While the stock transactions have been in the spotlight, some jabs also have been made by critics who contend Haynsworth has a record of opposing labor and civil rights interests.

Answers to Your Questions

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it impossible for a 68-year-old man to father children? A friend and I are arguing. He says it is, I said it isn't. At what age does it become impossible? — Miss C.S.P.

OLDEST EXAMPLE I find cited in the medical literature was a man past 120. At lesser ages (80 to 100) there are more. Women lose their fertility with the menopause. Men may be fertile as long as they live.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a diverticulitis condition be treated, ed, or is an operation necessary? Isn't that a ruptured colon? — M.C.B.

DIVERTICULITIS is an inflamed colon, but not necessarily ruptured. If a rupture occurs, it is an emergency situation. But in general, diverticulitis can be successfully treated without surgery. Severe cases may require an operation if there is obstruction, hemorrhage, abscess formation, or rupture of the colon.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is the amount of vapor inhaled in three hours while assembling a model harmful? — D.M.

Hard to answer specifically without knowing the size of the room and the amount of ventilation. And knowing how often you assemble a model. With good ventilation, it should not be harmful. To be on the safe side, keep the glue tubes closed as much as possible, and if the room seems to get stuffy, air it out. The concentration would not be nearly as strong as with the stupid fad of "glue-sniffing."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two years ago my husband, at age 21, had mumps. Would it necessarily follow that he would be sterile? — Mrs. D.G.

Not necessarily. It happens sometimes but not always. He would do better to have himself tested rather than just wondering.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does a cataract growing in one's eye make it advisable to stop reading and watching television? — E.W.J.

No. Watch and read as long as you can. It will not make the cataracts worse or harm your eyes.

Note to Mrs. L. H.: If treatments can reduce asthma, they will automatically be helpful to someone with emphysema — but cannot be expected to overcome emphysema.

Note to "D.V. and 18 others": The one general rule for using a douche is to do so only when prescribed by your doctor for medical reasons. It is not necessary for general hygiene, and can be harmful to some extent.

Note to J.R.: Yes, breast cancer is possible in men, and it has occurred, but it is very rare.

Never too late

"Youthful mothers, police officers, military men with 20 years or more of service behind them, and other mid-careerists are now 'retiring' with greater frequency than ever in order to go back to school to prepare themselves for new occupations," writes Rita Stafford Dunn, director of the New York State Teacher Reserve Center of Long Island University.

Dr. Dunn's report, "Continuing Education Comes of Age," appeared in a recent issue of the Journal of the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors. "And they are taking these bold steps," she continues, "when even the cliché proclaim that they are 'just beginning to live.'"

SUCH CHANGES are clearly evident at many colleges, but particularly so at public institutions, such as Winona State College, where the "older" student is not even noticed anymore. Among these men and women are many who have reassessed the meaning and direction of their lives and in so doing they have achieved deeper insights and new strengths to explore.

College counselors find that the idea of starting advanced education usually develops gradually. As Esther Matthews of the University of Oregon, also a specialist in adult education, puts it, adequate "inner preparation" is of vital importance. The woman whose husband and children energetically volunteer to take on expanded responsibilities for management of the home is at a great advantage. She runs few risks in the reordering of the patterns of family life when she returns to school. For her, inner preparation is readily achieved.

On the other hand, for some a long period of soul-searching is inevitable. Many women, even after receiving a vote of confidence on the home front, will ask themselves, do "they" inwardly resent the changes ahead in our way of life? Am I insensitive to their true attitudes?

Dr. Matthews reports that college counselors frequently talk with women who are anxious to expand their activities as family responsibilities lessen. Often, however, these women have mixed feelings because they have consistently placed the welfare, security, and growth of everyone in the family ahead of their own. And there are other inhibiting factors.

IT IS NOT news that re-experiencing the student role of threatening for many adults. The whole idea of concentrated study and competitive evaluation may revive earlier experience. Even the excellent student, man or woman, may be tense over his ability to repeat the performance of 20 years earlier.

Most adults were brought up in an earlier tradition which held that a steady decline of intellectual ability with age was common if not inevitable. A recent viewpoint is that maturity is accompanied in most cases by rising power of discipline, purpose, and commitment to self-selected tasks.

Today professional counselors are assisting the returning student in a variety of ways. Some adult students are encouraged to audit a course or two before signing up for credit. Others try out a volunteer job in a "new" field; still others have signed up for a TV course in a foreign language as a first step. Testing one's strength in these ways can tap capabilities, keep the mind open, and awaken enthusiasm as well as establish confidence.

COUNSELORS and other officials at all colleges are anxious to help the returning student. And teachers love them still more, for the older student — as the GI who came home from World War II — brings an intensity and clarity of purpose, a maturity and a determination that is ordinarily a cut above that of the younger student.

The younger student, of course, has something to teach the older student, and the classroom is an ideal setting, for there they are equal. — A.B.

The apple farmer

Although the operation involves relatively few farmers, the nearby Minnesota and Wisconsin area has become a major producer of apples.

The pickers are now scrambling around, in and up the heavily loaded trees in commercial orchards at Lake City, Bluff Siding, Galesville and Dakota-La Crescent.

In the latter area, which logically calls itself the Apple Capital of Minnesota, the yield at 16 large orchards could be as much as a half-million bushels this year. Both the expansion of existing orchards and plans for others cause observers to predict that in a decade the production might be a million bushels.

Long ago it was predicted that climatic conditions in the area would permit Hiawatha Valley orchards to rival the famous Wenatchee area of central Washington, a prediction that no longer seems outrageous.

Area apples are shipped to markets all over the Midwest, to the South as far as Texas and into Canada.

The local trade, of course, is an important one to the growers. A visit to any area orchard will verify the huge on-the-spot sale.

This coming weekend La Crescent will be observing its annual apple festival, an apple promotion that also benefits growers in other areas.

So it's on to La Crescent this weekend. — A.B.

For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: For it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth.—Romans 1:16.

Green Beret trial belongs in U.S.

WASHINGTON — The Army will long regret its decision to try the Green Berets for murder in a field military court martial whose verdict, by the very nature of the circumstances, will be forever debatable.

Already, there had been an ugly odor arising from this cloak-and-dagger case, which involves the killing of a South Vietnamese, Thai Khac Chuyen, claimed by defense counsel to have been a double agent. For the principal defendant, Col. Robert Rheault of the Special Forces in Vietnam, has had a record of marked heroism and devotion to duty, and the issues raised here have frightening implications.

ALREADY, some Americans with past experience in the darker and clandestine side of warfare had been wondering aloud whether the colonel and his associates were perhaps being thrown to the wolves under pressure from the South Vietnamese government or, alternatively, simply because they followed the harsh orders of wartime in an action that backfired upon higher authorities.

Such suggestions may, of course, be utterly unwarranted, given all the inside facts, and this columnist, for one, strongly suspects that just this is the case. Nevertheless, a court martial in the field, with all its inherent power to retreat behind security clamp-downs, is the very last forum for a satisfactory in-

Lighting up the alley

From an editorial in Christian Science Monitor

America doesn't need another blind alley for those who cannot cope with reality without physical stimulants. Already the nation has between five and six million alcoholics. It would be the most pitiable folly if it now raised a strain of drug-takers.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell testified before the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee that more than half of those arrested for drug use last year were young people under 21, and more than three-fourths under 25. Arrests were up 322 percent since 1960. And when one considers that present laws often go unenforced — as reportedly was the case at the recent Woodstock festival which brought 400,000 young folk to Bethel, N.Y. — the drug-taking phenomenon in America seems clearly to be getting out of hand.

There's confusion in three areas:

- Present laws don't fit all aspects of drug-taking today. The five-year minimum prison penalty for use of marijuana, for example, may be too heavy for a first user. Attorney General Mitchell thus proposes that penalties be matched to the category of offender — the professional trafficker who should be hit hard legally, the experimenter who could be penalized sharply but not unreasonably, and the addicted who needs to be cured more than punished.

- Not enough is known about drug-use and its effects. The legal confusion reflects this general ignorance of the problem.

- The public has to face up to the family, social, educational failures that lead to drug-taking. The drug-use upsurge is a symptom of the failure of young folk to find challenge, relevance, fulfillment in their lives. Drug-induced passivity is but the brother of violent activism among the young. The auto and easy transportation, TV and easy communication, are part of a life-style wherein drug-taking itself becomes easy. Citizens must think more deeply about the real substance of modern life — its capacity for vigorous effort, integrity, justice.

America's approach to the drug phenomenon has been too sketchy, too naive and at times too blindly heavy-handed. A major national study either by the Surgeon General or a special commission is called for. Laws may have to be revamped. But most important, the nation must square off intelligently against the drug-taking trend. Too many young folk are already playing in that dark alley.

Kennedy's re-entry

William F. Buckley

It takes a long time to clean up after one of Sen. Kennedy's speeches, but somebody must do the janitorial chores, so here we go.

It is my contention that shrewd observers of the American scene are aware that if you ever get into serious trouble, you should take a hard left tack. The reason is that it is thought to be dangerous (it isn't, really) and you therefore receive the adulation of those who are always waiting for new heroes, or for fresh feats of leftism by the old heroes. Sen. Kennedy is, how shall we put it, attempting a comeback; and this was his first extra-Chappaquiddick venture, and what did he do, why of course he denounced the Vietnam war, the Saigon government, and Richard M. Nixon.

The newspapers for the most part stressed Mr. Kennedy's charges that we are dealing with a "corrupt" regime which if it doesn't come around, we should simply abandon.

For an official from the state which after 400 years of democratic politics has finally arrived at Massachusetts eudaemonia, to criticize the achievements of the Vietnamese who have been self-governing for just over a dozen years is what, in deference to the holy season, one must describe as high chutzpah.

And then Sen. Kennedy, looking indignantly over in the direction of Richard Nixon, reminds us that no progress whatsoever has been made in 16 months. That is correct. It is also correct that 17 months ago he and others were telling us that we could make progress if only we moved to the negotiating tables, that we would make progress if we stopped the bombing. We did both these things and casualties rose. Does Sen. Kennedy, the pragmatist, now recommend the resumption of the bombing? No, of course not, although he is as full of advice as he was a year ago — which advice, when we took it, availed us not at all.

THE WAR in Vietnam, said the senator to his audience, "has been rejected by a great majority of the American people."

When?

We had a great big national election less than one year ago today, and the people elected as president a man who pledged himself to continue to underwrite a commitment begun by Sen. Kennedy's brother when he sent 15,000 American troops to Vietnam in 1963. At the Democratic convention in August a full day was devoted to the question of whether we should stop the bombing unilaterally, and that debate was won by the hawks. Whose candidate, Humphrey, was beaten by a senior hawk. So what is Sen. Kennedy talking about? It is true that the United States is tired of the war, and even more true that the United States is tired of the false advice of those who have told us we must not fight to win, and that we can count on sweet reason asserting itself at the conference table and lobotomizing the Vietnamese into sweetness and light.

And yes, it is of course necessary to blame on the Vietnam war all the other evils that flesh is heir to. On account of the Vietnam war, says the senator, "poverty at home will go on." Sen. Kennedy belongs to the party whose economic doctrine is that there is nothing like a little war or pyramid building to keep the economy brisk. "Prices will rise and the economy will continue to weaken," the senator moans. If anyone can find me one vote by Sen. Kennedy in favor of one measure designed to reduce government spending, I will retire to the DMZ.

But such speeches are not for analyzing. They are to give out vibrations and Zing! go the strings of their hearts, you watch.

No identity crisis

By ANTHONY LEWIS

KORCULA, Yugoslavia—Allentown, the identity crisis and the other vogue illnesses of the modern middle-class man must have something to do with his loss of geographical roots.

He lives in a suburb that itself has no identity, or he has lived in half a dozen places with no real attachment to any. If he does not know who he is, that is in part because he does not know where he is from.

NO SUCH psychological void afflicts the people of Korcula, a medieval walled town on an island of the same name, halfway between Split and Dubrovnik. They belong, and they are secure in the knowledge that they do. No observant visitor could miss the fact. How does it happen?

Insularity plays a part. Islanders always tend to have more consciousness of place because of their physical separation. Remote from the outside world, they turn in on themselves.

But there are islands without distinction, peopled by men with no sense of independence.

History has given the Korculans a spirit of shared danger and survival. They have fought invaders for centuries and, most of the time, maintained some degree of independence.

The advent of Tito's communism has had remarkably little effect on the island society. Old families have adapted, and some of their sons now hold office in Belgrade. Dr. Georg Arneric, a marvelously renaissance figure from one of the great aristocratic families, remarks: dryly that when his two daughters left the island to fight the Germans, "They left with the whites and came back with the Reds."

The sense of continuity is powerful. Ambroz Kapor, who like most of the others fought for Tito's partisans, lives in the house that his family has occupied for 300 years; he was married in its private chapel.

Korcula is a very small place, only 2,400 inhabitants. Everyone knows everyone else.

IT IS ALL very romantic, but what has it to do with the 20th Century?

We cannot, many of us, live on islands, or in walled towns, or in old family houses. We cannot even follow the famous advice of Mr. Justice Brandeis to stay in our "hinterland": There is no way now to stop the flow of mankind from the villages and small towns to the great urban sprawls.

But there is something to be learned from Korcula. What matters here is less the walls or the water around than the sense of community within. Somehow we must find ways of nourishing this sense in our urban societies.

Substituting for

We may not fight together against the Hapsburgs, for example, but we can join in resisting the enemies of life in our civilization — the forces that smash beauty for short-term profit, that plan order and produce sterility, that value "traffic flow" over functioning human arrangements. Anyone who has been through a neighborhood battle against an encroaching highway or airport knows the intense feelings of shared community purpose such struggles can arouse.

The sense of community need not come only from crisis. The key factor is probably size. Nations and even cities are too large. Part of the genius of London is that it remains a collection of villages, and people can identify with Islington or Swiss Cottage or Carlyle Square. The same should be true for Roxbury and Watts and Bedford-Stuyvesant.

Governments and business and weapons all grow larger and more powerful, but man's yearnings have really not changed. Among other things, he wants to be part of a tribe, a neighborhood, a community — an encompassable group of fellow beings.

DEAR ABBY:

He's Following Letter of Law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of a little incident that happened to us. To this day I still can't believe it.

First, let me explain that I am 22, my husband is 24, and we have a four-month-old baby. My husband and I set out for a drive-in movie, and we took our baby with us.

Outside the drive-in theater was a sign saying "NO ONE UNDER THE AGE OF 17 ADMITTED!"

Well a policeman stopped us outside the gate and said we couldn't take our daughter into the theater because she was under 17.

Now, Abby, I mean, what is a four-month-old baby going to see and tell? Wouldn't you say that was going a little too far?

SPRINGFIELD, VERMONT

DEAR SPRINGFIELD: I think the policeman was being somewhat unreasonable. But had there been a "babes in arms" clause tacked on to the ruling, you'd probably see nine-year-olds carried in by their parents.

DEAR ABBY: We have a wonderful daughter whom we have not permitted to date until she reached 16. (Louise was allowed to go to boy-girl parties, but not "date" in a car with just one boy alone.) She is a fine, bright girl, very pretty, with high moral standards and she accepted our decision without whining or rebelling.

Our problem is that the first boy Louise dated on her 16th birthday is a 22-year-old college MAN. Her father says he is too old for her. Of course Louise is upset over this. We have nothing against the boy. He is very nice and comes from a good family, and we like him as a person, but not as a constant companion for our daughter. An occasional date would be all right, but these two don't care to see anyone else. We are afraid Louise will want to get married and throw away her chances for a college education.

Are we wrong to try to keep them apart?

LOUISE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Not only are you wrong, I doubt if you can do it. You could demand that Louise date others and just to please you she may "go through the motions." But if she has already lost her heart to this young man her feelings for him would probably only grow stronger. But don't worry, if Louise has high moral standards and is bright, she'll not rush into anything prematurely.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say a few words to HAD IT, who griped about having to pick up the tab when he dates a woman.

I say, a man who wants the pleasure of dating a lady who has gone to the trouble and expense of making herself attractive, well-groomed, and stylishly dressed, had better be prepared to put his hand in his pocket.

Otherwise, let the idiot stay home and sit in front of the mirror and enjoy looking at the one he loves the most.

All the good men are either dead or married. And only half the married ones are good.

ALSO HAD IT

DEAR ABBY: I would gladly pick up the tab for a date in exchange for the privilege of asking the man out instead of waiting to be asked, or maybe never being asked by the ones I prefer. Also, for the privilege of earning enough money to be able to afford it!

Women are still being treated as second class citizens when it comes to jobs. When women are treated as equals, we will gladly accept ALL the responsibility that goes with it.

A WOMAN IN K. C.

Attorneys Ask Postponement of Nuclear Plant

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Mississippi River ecology would be disturbed by waste from a nuclear generating plant at Prairie Island, spokesmen for a citizens' group told a hearing here Monday.

Warren Cohen and William Hennessey, attorneys for the Minnesota Environmental Control Association (MECCA), asked the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA) to postpone plans for the plant.

Northern States Power Co. has asked the PCA for permission to discharge effluents from the proposed plant into the river.

MECCA claims the plant's discharge would raise the river's water temperature so much that plant and animal life would be endangered.

The MECCA attorneys asked the PCA to make a complete study of the plant's possible effects on river life before granting a discharge permit.

NSP officials told the hearing the nuclear plant is necessary to the economic and social development of the Upper Midwest.

James R. Forest, an NSP engineer, testified that failure to put the plant into operation by 1972 could mean a reduction in service to some customers.

Forest said the Prairie Island plant was basic to NSP's ability to meet its power service obligations. Without the plant, he said, the company would fall far short of meeting its commitments.

The NSP engineer said this might lead to "selective reduction of service to some customers."

A. V. Dienhart, director of environmental control at NSP, said water temperature could be held below the level described by PCA regulations. He said the temperature would drop rapidly a short distance downstream from the discharge canal.

Cohen asked Dienhart why the plant could not provide additional cooling to further reduce the temperature of the discharged water.

Dienhart replied that further cooling was theoretically possible, but that its cost would be too great for the small amount of additional cooling that would result.

The hearing is expected to end Wednesday, but PCA Chairman Robert Tuveson said a decision on the permit application is not expected for several months.

ATHLETIC SOLONS

CHICAGO (AP) Congressmen with sports backgrounds serving in the House of Representatives are among the individuals with unusual careers before they were elected legislators.

But a study of biographies gives a real clue as to what an ambitious young person needs as background for a career in Congress.

Commerce Clearing House said those with sports backgrounds are Robert B. Mathias—Calif., twice Olympic Gold Medal winner in the Decathlon; Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell—N.C., former National League All-Star baseball pitcher, and Morris K. Udall—Ariz., who played professional basketball with the Denver Nuggets.

Forty-eight members have served as teachers, 21 once were newspaper publishers, editors or reporters, 20 have served as administrative assistants to other legislators, 10 were F.B.I. agents, 3 are medical doctors, and 3 are clergymen.

STRIPTease QUALIFICATIONS

BUDAPEST (AP) — How does one become a striptease dancer in one of Budapest's half-a-dozen night clubs?

By producing a certificate of a dancer.

A decree published by the cultural department of Budapest metropolitan council said "to perform a striptease act in public, the artist has to produce a valid permit entitling her to operate as a solo dancer."

Council Rejects Garvin Gift of Wading Pool

City Council members virtually closed the door Monday night on any prospect of getting a $15,000 bequest from the H. C. Garvin estate.

The council adopted a resolution declaring that the construction of a wading pool in Windom Square Park would not be in the public interest. The will had offered the money for such a project as a memorial to the late Mrs. Garvin.

City Council

City Attorney George M. Robertson Jr. told the council that attorneys for the estate could not be expected to agree to alternative uses for the money as suggested by the city. Councilmen had balked at the idea of a wading pool in the park because of its hazardous aspects and because of maintenance difficulties it would present. They had suggested the money instead be applied to a memorial fountain in Levee Plaza or elsewhere.

The council's resolution was described by City Manager Carroll J. Fry as sort of a last-ditch effort to secure the money on the city's terms. The resolution was drawn by the city attorney and adopted by the council. It described the wading pool as contrary to the public interest but suggested that the public interest would be served, and the will's intent preserved, by the substitute application.

A move by Councilman Barry Nelson directed the city attorney to attend the appropriate court hearings when the will provision is reviewed.

Award Contracts For City Fuel

Bids were opened and contracts awarded Monday night by the City Council for purchase of petroleum products for the last quarter of 1969.

Successful bidder on gasoline was American Oil Co. Gulf Oil Co. won the contract for motor oils and grease and American won the contract for diesel fuel and kerosene.

The successful bid on gasoline by American totaled $3,079.90. American was the only bidder on diesel fuel and kerosene, pricing 500 gallons of diesel fuel and 500 gallons of kerosene at a total of $176.50. The Gulf bid on motor oil and grease totaled $362.85, compared with an American bid totaling $427.63.

Gasoline bids were as follows (net after deduction of 7 cents taxes): American — 14.06 cents per gallon for 7,000 gallons of premium grade; 12.20 cents for 15,000 gallons of regular grade; and 17.7 cents for 1,500 gallons of regular delivered by tank wagon; total bid $3,079.90.

Gulf — 14.8 cents for premium; 12.4 cents for regular; 13.8 cents for 1,500 gallons of regular by tank wagon; total bid $3,103.

Midland Cooperatives — 15.18 cents for premium; 13.18 cents for regular; 15.18 for tank wagon deliveries; total bid $3,287.30.

Housewives Promise More Boycotts

NEW YORK (AP) — Housewives who conducted local supermarket meat boycotts last month say their campaigns were only a partial success — local prices dropped temporarily — but their movement is far from over and is spreading nationally.

"The movement is spreading faster than I can keep up with it," said Mrs. Mickey DiLorenzo who in August led a two-week meat boycott at supermarkets in the Levittown, Long Island area of New York.

"We started with seven people in Levittown and now we have 400-500 people I can call on to actively participate," said Mrs. DiLorenzo, the wife of an electrician.

There are nine groups on Long Island alone. They consist of some 1,500 persons that "are already formed or forming" to help drive down the retail price of meats through boycotts, she said.

Mrs. DiLorenzo said the national drop in beef prices — the first in eight months — announced Monday by the Bureau of Labor Statistics was "encouraging."

Porterhouse steak dipped to $1.63 a pound at retail in August from $1.66 in July. Sirloin to $1.38 from $1.42 and chuck roast to 74 cents from 75 cents, the bureau reported.

The beef price drop was offset by increases in other meat prices, and egg prices rose 20 per cent reflecting a shift from higher priced red meats to eggs, the bureau said.

Groups bearing the name of Mrs. DiLorenzo's organization — FLP, For Lower Prices — are operating in Melbourne Beach, Fla., Fort Collins, Colo., Arlington, Va., and another is forming in Shelter Rock, Conn., with 50 women preparing for a membership drive, she said.

"Fifty women over a telephone can create a tremendous stir," Mrs. DiLorenzo added.

In Melbourne Beach, the wife of a college vice president, Mrs. Jan Stophlet, who engineered the boycott around the Cape Kennedy Space Center, said women are no longer checking grocery carts to assess meat sales as they did in August, but:

"We still urge women to just have one beef meal a week and not to buy the expensive cuts, just the low price cuts or the sale cuts."

"Live weight prices have gone down since the high in July, but we have not seen this decrease at the retail level," Mrs. Stophlet said.

A decrease in wholesale beef prices was seen last week in Chicago where they fell to six month lows. Choice beef on the wholesale market was down as much as 10 cents a pound from June at 44½ to 45½ cents. The June price was a 17-year high.

In Chicago, meat industry sources indicated privately that the boycotting housewives may be on the right track to lower meat prices.

Holmquist to Ask Corporate Tax Hike

ST. PAUL (AP) — The majority leader of the Minnesota Senate said Monday he will recommend a one per cent increase in the corporate income tax and said lawmakers should "think about" parimutuel betting.

Conservative Sen. Stanley Holmquist, speaking at the state AFL-CIO convention, said, however, he sees little need to increase or broaden the state sales tax.

The majority leader appeared on a tax panel with the chairman of two political parties and DFL state Sen. Karl Grittnir. Holmquist virtually stole the show as he sparred good-naturedly with his somewhat hostile audience, composed of DFL-leaning labor leaders.

Looking ahead, Holmquist said there should be less emphasis on property as a tax base and an increased emphasis on income and consumer taxes.

"First of all, I'm going to insist that there be no sales tax on food, clothing and drugs," he said.

These exemptions are now in the law, but DFLers contend the Conservative majorities in the legislature eventually will bring in a general sales tax.

Holmquist told newsmen later the present 3 per cent rate on the sales tax also need not be changed.

"Increased growth and inflation will take care of the increased costs of government," he said.

Holmquist said a 1 per cent boost in the income tax for corporations will bring in $7 million a year, enough to increase the present 35 per cent home- stead tax credit to about 38 per cent.

He said he also will recommend a gross earnings tax on utilities, and said lawmakers may have to consider higher taxes on gasoline and on boats.

The Grove City Conservative said he has opposed parimutuel betting but he now feels lawmakers ought to think about it. That drew some applause from the labor delegates.

Holmquist's comments were among the earliest predictions on tax changes for the next legislative session. Conservatives and Gov. Harold LeVander made a similar pledge before the 1969 session on the sales tax and no changes were made.

Grittnir, the Senate minority leader, said Republicans have "thinly disguised" their intent to raise the sales tax. Grittnir said the 1967 sales tax law gave whopping tax cuts to business in comparison with the $250 tax cut limit for homeowners.

DFL State Chairman Warren Spannaus and Republican Chairman George Thiss swapped generally partisan comments on recent tax changes.

Spannaus jibed at the "quality of life" survey which LeVander quotes frequently. He said the survey is based on the years 1963 to 1967, when DFL'er Karl F. Roylaag was governor.

One of the high points of the labor convention comes this afternoon when Hubert H. Humphrey makes his annual appearance.

Humphrey is expected to be endorsed for the U.S. Senate, although it is unlikely he will specify clearly as yet whether he will enter the race next year.

Atty. Gen. Douglas Head, a possible Republican opponent for Humphrey next year, also is on the program.

Maroon and gold campaign buttons emblazoned "Humphrey in '70" appeared at the state DFL convention over the weekend and are much in evidence among the labor leaders.

Humphrey said some time ago he isn't discouraging any endorsements, even though he's not saying yet whether he will run.

Sanborn Project Accepted by City Council

Payment of final contractor's estimates and acceptance of a certificate of completion for the Sanborn Street improvement project was voted Monday night by the City Council.

Total cost of the project was put at $139,209.60. Of this the city will pay $124,124.27 — using state street aid funds — and $15,085.33 will be assessed. The assessments are for related improvements, including installation of curb and gutter at points along the street where there had been none before.

The project extended from Mankato Avenue eastward to a point 1,160 feet east of 25th Street. The street is bituminous-surfaced and conforms to the 44-foot width specified by state aid regulations.

In a companion action the council authorized payment to Peerless Chain Co. of $7,835.85. The company had supplied dredged fill for construction of the easterly extremity of the street under an agreement with the city. The agreement also called for Peerless to pay assessed costs of curb and gutter fronting on its property, totaling $6,240.

Assessment hearings were set for Oct. 20.

Two Windom Men Die in Crash; Toll Hits 688

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Windom, Minn., men were killed Monday in a car-truck collision near that city, bringing Minnesota's 1969 traffic toll to 688, compared with 767 in the same period a year ago.

The Highway Patrol said Jake R. Boltema, 61, and Leo Vandermoon, 71, died when their pickup truck, driven by Boltema, collided with a car at the intersection of Highways 86 and 60 just south of Windom.

The patrol said Kenneth Lacey, Fairbury, Neb., and his wife Shirley and daughters Angie and Jacqueline were in the car. Shirley Lacey was hospitalized at Windom in satisfactory condition.

Asks 'Squeeze' Be Put on For Welfare

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A state legislator Monday invited counties to put the squeeze on his colleagues to wring more money out of Madison for welfare programs.

The invitation came from Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, chairman of the Joint Finance Committee.

Moderating a panel discussion on the effects of the new state budget, Hollander told delegates to the county boards convention they have the chance to take a position that would help them financially by recouping federal dollars that would be lost under the budget.

"THE COUNTIES have the opportunity, through resolution, to help guide the thinking of the legislature when it convenes Sept. 29," Hollander said.

But Robert Mortenson of Madison, County Board Association executive, said no such resolution is scheduled to come before the convention this week.

When Gov. Warren P. Knowles called the special session, he asked it to consider appropriating an additional $33 million in aid to cities, including the restoration of $7.5 million in welfare spending cut by the legislature.

Hollander said the major problem is not repeal of aid to dependent children of the unemployed, stepchildren and students over age 18, but the legislative mandate that aid to dependent children grants generally cannot be greater than 120 percent of the national average.

A FOUR man subcommittee of the Joint Finance Committee should be able to work out a solution to the limited question and that should be adopted by the legislature, he said. The agreement, Hollander speculated, would be to make the 120 percent of the national average apply only to the subsistence grant and remove rent supplements and special needs from the restriction.

Welfare mothers have said the 120 percent limit is too low.

Minneapolis Man Will Be Charged In Shooting

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A 21-year-old Minneapolis man was expected to be charged this morning in the shooting of a Currie, Minn., man in a Bloomington apartment Sunday.

Bloomington police said the Minneapolis man apparently shot Charles Peltola while holding Peltola and five others hostage in the apartment.

Peltola was listed in "serious" condition by a Minneapolis hospital spokesman early this morning.

Officers said the gunman stopped two apartment occupants about 3 a.m., got in their car and forced the pair to drive around. After taking their money, the gunman forced them to drive him to their apartment.

The gunman then roused four other persons visiting the pair and robbed them and "made constant threats," police said.

The wounding of Peltola occurred at the apartment. After the Currie man was shot, the other men subdued the gunman.

Rushford Pool Project Gets Big Boost

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — The Rushford area swimming pool received a big send-off in the drive for funds last week with a donation of $7,500 from Rush Products Co. — nearly 10 percent of what the pool will cost.

It will be constructed below the Good Shepherd Lutheran Home and cost about $80,000. Solicitors are visiting every home in Rushford during the drive.

The pool will be built by Oakmount Pool Co., Caledonia. Bids will be sought later for an aluminum pool 42 by 75 feet, with wading pool 16 by 24 feet, plus bath house, decking, fencing, plumbing and electrical work.

Martin-Led Twins Claw Way to West Title

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, under the prodding of a short-tempered little manager cast in the mold of a Casey Stengel, clawed their way to the West Division pennant of the American League—with words, fists and base hits.

Billy Martin, who played under Stengel on those great New York Yankee teams of the 1950s, took a firm hand on his players from the start of his first season as manager.

The Twins, described as the modern day version of the Gashouse Gang, went into 1969 hoping to recover from a disastrous seventh place finish the season before.

The season was in the second month when Martin unloaded a salty verbal attack on the Twins farm system. He later apologized. A week later he called Ted Williams, Washington manager and Hall of Famer the worst player he'd ever seen. Martin explained later that he was criticizing Williams' base running and lack of hustle as a player.

In the third month, pitcher Dave Boswell tried to take on teammates Rod Carew and Cesar Tovar in a Kansas City hotel.

In the fourth month, Boswell kicked and slugged outfielder Bob Allison outside a Detroit bar. Martin wasted little words, knocking out his pitcher and sending him to the hospital for several stitches. Boswell was back in two weeks, carrying Martin's line-up cards to the umpires.

There were beanball incidents against Oakland, one sending players from both teams pouring onto the field for battle.

Through it all, the Twins said they remained united and devoted to Martin.

The Twins took an early season lead, fell in and out of first place for very brief periods and went into September expecting a torrid fight with the Oakland A's. It never happened. The Twins beat the A's three out of four on the West Coast and two straight in the Twin Cities. It was all over.

Hitting and defense carried weak pitching most of the season.

Harmon Killebrew, the mightiest slugger of the powerful Twins, admits "having one of my better years." The third and first baseman may wind up with career highs of more than 50 homers and 150 RBI.

Pitchers vined at having to face a lineup with three .300 hitters—league leader Carew, first baseman Rich Reese and right fielder Tony Oliva. Shortstop Leo Cardenas and outfielder Cesar Tovar could finish in the .280s, Ted Uhlaender and Killebrew, high .270s and wise old catcher John Roseboro .250s or .260s.

Tovar and Carew, All-Star second baseman the three years he's been in the league, torment pitchers on the baselines. Carew broke an American League record with seven steals of home in his first seven tries. Tovar will swipe more than 40 bases. Killebrew even has eight steals.

Veteran Bob Allison and rookies Rick Renick, George Mitterwald, Charles Manuel and Graig Nettles have turned in key hits in spot appearances. Defense replacement Frank Quilici helped win games with his two homers.

Twins President Calvin Griffith's highest compliment to Martin was for his handling of the injury-riddled pitching staff. Boswell, Jim Kaat and Dean Chance were late getting started and were bothered by injuries.

Boswell still has a chance for 20. Kaat and Chance are showing late season strength.

But the ace came out of the bullpen, 32-year-old Jim Perry who achieved a career high when he hurled his 20th victory Saturday. Perry has lost only two games since the All-Star break. Tom Hall, a rookie left-hander, also was impressive in the later states.

When Twins starters faltered, in came Ron Perranoski who broke the league record for saves and could still appear in 75 games this year.

Roseboro, Ferranoski and Bob Miller, who also have pitched strongly, came to the Twins in 1968 from the Los Angeles Dodgers in exchange for two of Minnesota's 1965 league champions, shortstop Zolo Versalles and pitcher Jim Grant.

There was another important trade.

Griffith used two words for his opinion of the biggest factor in 1969:

"Leo Cardenas," he said flatly, "without him, I doubt that we'd be where we are today."

Twins Bubbling Over Pennant

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Billy Martin would let nothing detract from his moment of glory. "I think I had to be tough," he said. "I had to stop it right then, before it spread. I've had my players' respect right from the beginning, and I've got it now."

Players like Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison, Jim Kaat as necessary to head off more serious troubles.

They pointed to the impending five-game playoff with the Baltimore Orioles for the A.L. pennant and a berth in the World Series as enough reason for them to hold their celebrating to a minimum.

Not so Martin and most of the other Twins, particularly the younger players.

"I say let's celebrate it, with champagne and the whole works," Martin bubbled in the clubhouse as he drank from a giant-sized brandy snifter.

"Without this celebration," he asked, "why split the leagues up into division? I was all for the champagne. This is my biggest thrill."

There was little doubt Martin relished the moment.

There were other moments perhaps less enjoyable this season as Martin found himself the center of controversy as he feuded with fellow manager Ted Williams of Washington, the Twins' farm department over where to ship a pitcher in the minors; the press; and even wound up giving pitcher Dave Boswell a pretty good licking in a fistfight after Boswell got heated up because a coach allegedly told Martin he had dogged it.

Martin, earlier Monday night, staunchly defended his actions and Al Worthington, all veterans of the Twins' 1965 pennant-winning club, pointed to the play off beginning Oct. 4 in Baltimore as the reason they couldn't get so elated Monday night.

"We haven't won that much, yet," Kaat said. "We've got a tough five-game series ahead of us with Baltimore. The one in '65 meant more, because that was the whole league."

"The others can do the celebrating for me," said Killebrew, who helped the Twins to victory by socking his 47th home run. He now leads the major leagues in both home runs and runs batted in, with 137.

"We've got a long way to go," Killebrew added. "We haven't won anything yet."

Martin, who received telephone calls of congratulations from Gov. Harold LeVander of Minnesota, Twins' President Calvin Griffith and Martin's father-in-law in Nebraska, talked of his pre-playoff plans.

"I want to rest Leo Cardenas," he said. "I'll keep Rod Carew in there because of the batting race. I'll get Rich Reese back in there, and let Allison, Frank Quilici and Rick Renick play more to get their timing down."

"I don't know about Harmon. I'll talk it over with him and see what he wants to do about resting. He's just been fantastic."

Martin was encouraged by a strong eight-inning pitching job by Bob Miller, his first start in six weeks because of a pulled muscle. Billy admits his pitching is not deep for the playoff.

What about Baltimore, who won eight of the 12 games played between the two A.L. division winners this season?

"They're a good ballclub, and they'll be tough," Martin said. "But they can be beaten."

Henry Boucha Changes Mind About Hockey

WARROAD, Minn. (AP) — Highly-touted prep hockey player Henry Boucha has decided against enrolling at the University of Minnesota and instead will play Junior A hockey in Canada, the Minneapolis Tribune said in its Tuesday edition.

Boucha, who recently revealed plans to marry, is currently in Winnipeg, Manitoba, to finalize a two-year contract with the Jets.

Boucha, who was selected to the all-state tournament team at defense after leading Warroad to the finals, was to take a final entrance exam at the University Friday. Warroad lost to Edina 5-4 in that championship game in which Boucha suffered an injury.

Henry's mother, Mrs. Alica Boucha, confirmed the decision Monday night.

"I am a little disappointed that he is not going to the University of Minnesota but he will be attending a junior college in Winnipeg while he plays."

"His biggest dream in life is playing in the National Hockey League and he will get a lot of experience in Canada," she added.

Glen Sommar, coach of the Minnesota hockey team, said "We're very, very disappointed. Henry's an excellent hockey player; the kind that only comes along once in a great while."

"He did have a test to take to be eligible to play at Minnesota as a freshman, and there was the chance that he would have to sit out a year. That may have figured in his decision, but he'll be a fine hockey player, wherever he plays."

Gopher Hockey Star Signs With Rangers

KITCHENER, Ont. (AP) — Dick Paradise, a 23-year-old defenseman who starred for the University of Minnesota, has been signed to a professional contract by the New York Rangers, it was announced Monday by the National Hockey League team.

Paradise is the first American to be signed by the Rangers since Jack McCartan, a goalie, in 1960-61.

Martin Kept Team Respect

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Billy Martin, colorful and peppery manager of the Minnesota Twins, says he kept the respect of his ballplayers by not handing out petty fines and by being tough.

"I've had their respect right from the beginning," Martin said before the Twins clinched the American League's West Division against the Kansas City Royals.

"I've never had any problem there," he said. "I've held onto their respect by handling them like men. I don't throw out a lot of silly fines. That would have lost their respect."

Martin said he met several situations of budding trouble full flush this year to avoid deeper problems.

"I think I had to, though," he said. "I had to stop it right then before it spread."

He didn't detail any of the specific situations for public consumption.

Martin did talk about the incident in which he used his fists to subdue pitcher Dave Boswell after Boswell became irate over a Twins coach telling Martin the pitcher had not run the ordered number of laps in practice.

"The Boswell thing was blown out of proportion," said Martin. "Some of the writers were completely out of line. I don't pal around with my players and I don't run away from them, either."

"I'm just a manager, I'm not a paper god. I don't have to run them out of bars to have their respect. I don't have to fine them either. What good is a leader if he doesn't live and die his convictions?"

Martin said his toughest job this season has been to keep the Twins' injury-plagued pitching staff patched together. "I still don't know who my third and fourth pitchers will be for the Baltimore playoff," he said.

Injuries to Dean Chance, Jim Kaat, Boswell and others from time to time have forced Martin to rely on veteran reliever Bob Miller and youngsters Tom Hall and Dick Woodson more than he wanted. "We were just lucky enough that the clubs they pitched against they could hold"

Martin said.

Otherwise, Martin attributed the Twins' success to the combination of virtually all his regulars having good years and a few, notably Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva, having tremendous years.

"It was just a great team effort, even though I know that sounds trite," Martin said.

Asked about Minnesota's chances in the five-game A.L. playoff with Baltimore, Martin said: "The Orioles are a good ballclub, but they can be beaten. It depends. If my ballclub is hitting and we get decent pitching we'll beat them."

"As for Baltimore's record, I'd like to have had Chance all year and see what our record would have been."

Kathy Whitworth Coming Closer To Carol Mann

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kathy Whitworth lost the Lincoln-Mercury Women's Open Golf Tournament at Alamo, Calif., Sunday in a playoff with Donna Caponi, but she closed to within $64 of Carol Mann for first place on money winnings in the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

LPGA headquarters said today the $2,300 Miss Whitworth won Sunday boosted her total for the tour to $41,701. Miss Mann won $1,375 for a fourth-place tie at Alamo and has won a total of $41,765.

Miss Mann and Miss Whitworth each has won six tournaments on the tour.

Miss Caponi's $3,000 victory at Alamo brought her winnings to $17,407 and boosted her ahead of Sandra Haynie, who has had the third spot for weeks.

Miss Haynie has won three times and $24,605.

State Gridders Seeing Stars

By HOWARD LESTRUD
Daily News Sports Editor

Two football games later and two Winona State College defensive standouts are seeing stars.

The stars are on the exterior of the helmet and not on the interior. Warrior coach Moon Molinari and his assistants installed a new incentive awards system two years ago, whereby outstanding players received stars to place on their helmets after making an outstanding play in the game prior.

Roger Jehlicka, 175 pounds soaking wet and with his uniform on according to Molinari, has three stars. He has recovered three fumbles, all in the first game. Jehlicka was also the team's leading tackler last Friday against the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Another star collector is 200-pound junior defensive halfback Jim Dybevik.

Dybevik ran back an interception 40 yards plus for a touchdown in the Warriors' opener two weeks ago and he ran one back 80 yards for a TD against Chicago Circle last week.

"I'm not a Jehlicka," laughs Dybevik when showing his star-less helmet. "I keep them under cover," the Austinite says. Dybevik also recovered two fumbles in State's 36-7 win over the Chikass in Chicago.

Asked if he gambled on his interception Friday night, Dybevik quickly replied, "I think you always gamble and it always pleases me to know that I have Starzecki (Rick) behind me."

Jehlicka and Steve Erdmanczyk (200) were Dybevik's guides on the 80-yard run. "The ball was thrown a little short and when I started my run I just watched Rog and Steve clean 'em out," Dybevik said.

Coach Molinari has been smiling since he returned from Chicago and he says Dybevik, Jehlicka and halfback Bill Price are three reasons why.

"Dybevik is a money player, Jehlicka has that quickness because of his wrestling ability (wrestles at 147). Billy is still rusty but he continues to improve," Molinari commented.

Price ran for 114 yards in 15 carries Friday. The 190-pounder from South St. Paul hasn't played football for the past three years. He served in Vietnam the past year.

"It feels pretty nice to tote the pigskin again and it's much better than the war because you don't know what to expect over there," Price said.

Contact has been a stranger to Price for the past few years, but he met up with it again Friday. "Getting hit is all the same to me but I did get rapped up pretty hard a couple of times against Chicago," Price recalled.

In addition to praising the work of Dybevik, Jehlicka and Price, Molinari said every player "had a pretty good day" including the reserves who he had a chance to watch. Ron Hohman ran for more than 70 yards and quarterback Don Wistreich, sophomore, was put under fire.

Mays Cracks 600th Home Run

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Willie Mays says he thrives on pressure, but he felt relieved to have some of it lifted from his back here when he became the second major leaguer ever to hit 600 home runs.

"The pressure was building up, I had been trying too hard to hit home runs," said the 38-year-old wonder after he clouted No. 600 as a pinchhitter Monday night with one on in the seventh inning to give San Francisco a 4-2 victory over San Diego.

"The big thing is that it won the game," said Mays after keeping the Giants a half game ahead of Atlanta in the National League's frantic Western Division race.

Frank Torre, the former Milwaukee first baseman, represents the Adirondack Bat Co., and has been following Mays and the Giants around for several weeks, waiting for Willie to hit No. 600. The milestone smash earned Mays a $12,500 sports car and one share of stock for each foot the homer traveled.

The blast off Padre rookie righthander Mike Corkins was estimated to have traveled 390 feet. It followed an infield hit by Ron Hunt and obliterated a 2-2 tie.

A small crowd of 4,779 gave Mays a standing ovation and the entire San Francisco bench was waiting at home plate as Willie rounded the bases on a gimpy knee injured several weeks ago in a home plate collision with Chicago catcher Randy Hundley.

"It was a thrill to see all my teammates waiting at home plate — that's something you don't see very often," Mays said.

Mays, slowed by age and injuries, doesn't even consider the possibility of catching the all-time home run leader, Babe Ruth, who hit 714 roundtrippers. Ruth was the only other big leaguer ever to hit as many as 600.

"I don't know how much longer I can go," says Mays, "but I know I'll hit some more home runs if I can stay healthy, that's been my trouble. I was out of the lineup for a couple of weeks and I had trouble getting my timing back."

"Yes, but you've hit the ball as well the last couple of weeks as you have in several years," said teammate Jim Davenport.

Mays has 10 hits in his last 27 at bats and has driven in seven runs in his last eight games. He says he thrives on the kind of excitement the Giants and Braves are generating in their run to the Western Division wire.

Caledonia's Charles Beilich finished first in a time of 10:43, followed by teammate Mike Burg 20 seconds later.

Caledonia also won the B meet, this by 19-35. The B squad record is now 1-1. The next varsity meet is at home with Waukon, Iowa, at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

CLIPPERS EDGE DENVER. STAMFORD, Ont. (AP) — Rick Kessel scored a goal with 55 seconds left as the Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League edged the Western Hockey League Denver Spurs 5-4 in an exhibition game Monday night.

Happy Packers Show Results of Sunday's Battle

GREEN BAY (AP) — It was a happy bunch of Packers who showed up voluntarily Monday for the team's training program.

They are leading the National Football League's Central Division by a full game, after their 17-0 victory over Chicago. It was a tough battle, fought the hard way, mostly on the ground. There were the usual injuries.

Bart Starr was hobbling on a sprained instep, Marv Fleming, the only tight end on the roster, had a bruised shoulder and linebacker Jim Flannigan is out for a month or two with a broken arm.

"I haven't spent one minute in that room," Starr said, pointing to the training room as he limped toward his locker, "and I don't intend to."

"You always hope to run like we did," said Head Coach Phil Bengtson, meeting the press after watching films of the victory. Hard, tough running and blocking was his training camp theme song and it paid off against the rough Bears.

"We were doing a job on their long road ahead for Bruins' Green."

OTTAWA (AP) — Teddy Green of the Boston Bruins, one of the National Hockey League's top defensemen injured in a stick-swinging duel, faced a long recuperative road today.

The Bruins' 1969-70 championship hopes suffered a jolt during the weekend when Green suffered a fractured skull when hit by Wayne Maki of the St. Louis Blues in the first period of an exhibition game.

ANOTHER WOMAN FIRST. LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (AP) — Barbara Sutor of Arrowwood, Alta., became the first woman jockey to win a recognized race on an Alberta track Monday with a victory at exhibition park before 2,000 fans.

Miss Sutor received her license Friday. Besides her win Monday, she was third in another race.

Miss Sutor guided Hobo's Delight to victory in the fifth race.

GANGING UP. BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — On one day last spring the University of Colorado received signed letters of intent to enroll from nine California high school football linemen weighing a total of 2,120 pounds.

Jaastad Hardware Rips 3,064 Count at Hal-Rod

In Monday night bowling league activity, Jaastad Hardware of the City League at Hal-Rod Lanes broke loose for a 3,064 count to jump into second place in this season's records.

Had the series been rolled last year, it would have stood tied for sixth in the record books. Meanwhile, Golden Brand Foods belted 1,065-3,005 (its third consecutive 3,000-plus series) and William's Hotel molded an even 3,000.

Bud Berger slammed 228-652 for Holiday Inn, Bob Beales led the William's surge with 246-616, Luther Myhr spearheaded Jaastad on 236-649, Gary Schossow toppled 608, Jim Konkel 607, and Bob Kratz 606 errorless.

Bunke's Apco in Hal-Rod Lanes' VFW League cracked 1,067-3,002 behind the muscle of Dick Seeling's 213-625 and Del Prodzinski's 212-606. The 1,067 is the fourth highest men's team game to be recorded this season.

Ken Hovell flipped 236 for 513 and Ruth Todd 512.

Sand Bar and Bruce Ressie of Wason's Supper Club marked 211-602.

Shirley Gehlhaart, substituting for Polachek Electric, pounded 202-550 in the Pin Topplers League at Westgate Bowl. Watkin's Cosmetics swept to 981-2,662. Guppy Sessions Begin Saturday

The first sessions of the fall guppy swimming program at the YMCA will begin Saturday, said Robert Vander Berg, program chairman.

Guppy swim is for boys in the first and second grade. It is for beginning swimmers or advance swimmers.

Two classes will be held each Saturday running from Sept. 27 through Dec. 20. There will be no class the weekend of Thanksgiving.

The first class will run from 9:15 until 10 a.m. and the second class will run from 12 noon until 12:45 p.m. Classes will be divided into two parts; one part for beginners, who will meet in the shallow end of the pool, and one part for advanced swimmers, who will meet in the deep water.

Two instructors, with helpers, will be used to ensure the safety of the boys, said Vander Berg. Advance registration is required and a fee for the class will be charged. Classes will be limited to 15 boys in the shallow or beginning class and 10 boys in the deep or advanced class.

For more information, contact Vander Berg.

Rural Fire Call Fees to Increase

Rural townships contracting with the City of Winona for fire protection will be asked to pay higher fees under new contracts to be proposed.

The amounts paid for rural calls barely cover the costs of gas and provide no return for maintenance of city equipment, said City Manager Carroll J. Fry.

Ten-year contracts with Winona, Wis., and Homer and township expire Sept. 30, a contract with Warren Township expires Dec. 1, 1969, and a contract with Hillsdale Township expires Jan. 1, 1970.

COUNCILMEN directed the manager to draw proposed agreements with the first three townships for early presentation to their boards. They would be asked to adopt a 5-mill levy for fire protection purposes. In addition the agreement would call for payment of $40 for the first hour of service by the city fire department and $25 for each additional hour.

Under agreements soon to expire, the payment provided was $50 for the first hour and $10 for each additional hour. There has been no levy for payment beyond the amount tendered for each fire call.

Each fire run made by city equipment costs an average of $400, according to a report prepared by city personnel and submitted by the manager to councilmen.

In 1968 the city department made nine runs to rural fires. Present agreements cover 238 properties in Winona Township, 324 in Wilson Township, 321 in Homer Township, 33 in Warren Township and 23 in Hillsdale Township. Only parts of the latter two are served by Winona. The remainder lie within the service radius of the Lewiston fire department.

TOWNSHIPS could expect better service along with acceptance of more realistic fees, the report stated. A larger tank truck could be provided and more than two men could be sent initially on a call, the report said. Fire Chief Ervin Lauf-burger said the present tank truck's capacity is 350 gallons of water, hardly enough for the task.

He said if additional funds could be secured the department could acquire a tank truck with a capacity of as much as 2,000 gallons. Most farm and rural water supplies are not adequate to meet the demands of firefighting equipment, Lauf-burger said.

FRANK Chesley, Red Wing, chairman of the board's curriculum committee, said the board currently lacks such information.

"For example," he said, "the committee would like to know how each college determines that there will be sufficient interest in a particular new program to justify offering it."

"The question is related to the over-all question of the efficient allocation of educational resources within the college and within the system as a whole."

The committee also seeks information on the minimum number of faculty members and minimum standards of faculty preparation needed to create "viable" departments and majors, Chesley said.

The board adopted a resolution instituting an examination of all graduate programs in the system, with a report due by next June, and said it will approve no new graduate programs until the college making the request has reported on its long-range plans and standards.

A SIMILAR resolution on undergraduate programs is expected to be passed at the next board meeting in November, officials said.

In other business, Chancellor G. Theodore Mitau reported that 75 students are participating in two programs under the new Common Market plan, which provides for students at each college to take advantage of unique programs at the other state colleges.

He said 48 students from five colleges are in the Inner City Student Teaching Program in the Twin Cities. Previously, only St. Cloud State and Mankato State had student teachers in the metropolitan area.

Another 27 are spending the fall quarter away from their home college studying at another state college.

Council Receives CD Shelter Study

A Civil Defense county-city community shelter plan, approved by the Winona County Board of Commissioners, was received and filed Monday night by the City Council.

Councilmen noted that the city had not been consulted in connection with the plan's preparation. It was assembled by Nelson, Wehrman, Knight & Chapman, Minneapolis consultant firm. The council observed also that the city will bear much of the burden of administration and supplies distribution.

City Clerk John Carter recalled that the agreement extends back for several years to a time when city and county were jointly responsible for funding and administering Civil Defense projects. Both are to contribute equally and be reimbursed from federal funds.

In practice, however, it was the city which did the work and supplied the interim funding, Carter said.

IT WILL GET C-H-I-L-L-Y TONIGHT

The weather forecast for Winona and vicinity calls for the digging out of blankets and sweaters as temperatures are predicted to dip below the 40-degree mark tonight.

The forecast calls for clear skies and cool temperatures tonight, followed by fair skies and warmer readings Wednesday when the mercury is expected to hover between 60 and 68.

The outlook for Thursday is for temperatures near or a little above normal and with a chance of showers.

Monday's showers produced 45 inches of moisture and were accompanied by a cooling trend. After an overnight low of 49, temperatures had climbed only to 56 by noon today. A high of 76 was recorded Monday.

Heart Fund Gifts Used for Research

Gifts to the Heart Fund in memory of Victor Bohnen, late Winona resident, were made last month and will be used for research into the causes and control of heart disease, said Keith Ostrander, Pleasant Valley Rd., memorial gifts chairman of Winona County, Minnesota Heart Association.

Heart memorials offer "a way of paying significant respect to relatives, friends and associates who have died, and give hope to the living by supporting projects designed to help reduce the toll of death and disability resulting from the various forms of heart and circulatory diseases," Ostrander said.

He pointed out that the great need for heart research funds is indicated by the fact that it is estimated more than 19,000 Minnesotans will die from heart disease and circulatory diseases this year. In Winona County, for example, there were 451 deaths last year, and of this number 250 were from heart disease.

Individuals may contact Ostrander for Heart Fund Memorial information. An acknowledgment card is sent by the Heart Association to the bereaved family immediately upon notification of a memorial gift. Receipts are sent to donors for income tax purposes.

Blue Chips

Spur Market Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, spurred by several blue-chip gains, continued to climb in moderate trading early this afternoon as advances outdistanced declines by 200 issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, registering a small gain Monday, reached 836.19 at noon, up 4.42.

Analysts noted that several glamor issues, which spiraled upward Monday, fell prey today to profit taking, Xerox, a star performer Monday, fell off 2 1/2 at 101 1/2.

Other declines were seen in Control Data, off 1 1/2 at 139 1/2 and IBM off 2 1/2 at 356.

Some glamors, however, continued to gain, such as Polaroid, up 1/2 at 138 1/2.

One analyst said today's market performance represented a "further consolidation in the base-building pattern with the 800 mark of the DJI now a valid low."

Several of the Dow Jones industrials added a strength to the market, with Woolworth up 2 at 38 1/2 and Procter & Gamble up 1 1/2 at 99 1/2.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up .9 to 291.6, with industrials up 1.8, rails up .6, and utilities off .4.

Rubbers, electronics and airlines were mostly up fractionally, while motors, aircrafts, utilities, metals and chemicals were mixed.

Texaco led the list of the 20 most-active Big Board stocks at 31 1/2, off 1/2. Boeing, which said it was ready to move on the supersonic transport airplane — SST — after President Nixon's earlier approval, moved up 1 1/2 at 35 1/2.

Home Oil A was the most active stock on the American Stock Exchange, falling off 1 1/2 at 39 1/2.
